Moving from Connect to PDH for IP Downloads

- + Connect has now closed to customers and IP downloads are available from Product Download Hub \(PDH\)
- + Fee-based physical IP is available in Athena (DesignStart Beta), not PDH
- + The following slides show a few key differences between the two systems along with some key features of PDH
- + If you encounter any issues, then please raise a support request here

How your IP appears in the two systems

PDH – Some Key Features

PDH includes all products. Only shows products you are entitled to download by default (must be logged in)

Search filters (as opposed to folders in Connect)

Optional queue function for multiple downloads

PDH - View Entitled IP on Specific Contracts

Filter by contract

The screenshot displays the PDH (Product Data Hub) interface. At the top, there are navigation tabs: Home, Product Search (active), Recently Viewed, and Download queue. Below the navigation bar, there is a search section with a 'Refine your search' label, a 'Reset' button, and a search input field with the placeholder text 'Search by product name, product code or contract number'. A 'My Products' button is also present. A checkbox labeled 'Only show products I have access to' is checked. On the left, there is a filter sidebar with categories: Programme, Product Line, Family, and Application. The 'Contract' filter is selected, and a dropdown menu is open, showing 'PDH-TEST' as the selected option. The main content area displays a list of products, including 'ARM Routing Tech Kit' with details like 'DesignStart', 'Physical IP', 'Foundry', 'Process', 'Geometry', and 'Product'. Each product entry includes a file size, a contract number, a date, and an 'Add to queue' button.
